Ruskin Studying Art.

Such a lover of art is John Ruskin that he often adopts novel methods of studying artistic effects. On one occasion he astonished the waiter at his hotel by calling for half-a-dozen bottles of champagne. They were brought, and the man was ordered to pour out slowly the contents of one bottle into a deep plate, while Ruskin sat and watched attentively the foam of the effervescing wine. When it had nearly subsided, another bottle was poured out in the same manner; fizzing and bubbling, the wine made its way into another plate, and the great artist still sat watching keenly the result. One bottle after another, until the whole six were exhausted, was poured forth in this way, and then Ruskin, turning to the waiter, made him a present of the wine, advising him, with a touch of his own quaint dry humor, "not to drink it all himself." Like the famous painter who sat all one day throwing pebbles into the water, and marking the ripples they made on its surface, Ruskin had been taking an art-lesson from the effervescence of the champagne at all this expense of time and money.

On another occasion he engaged a band of the best musicians from London at great expense, and made them play on the beach near Folkestone.

AT KEITER'S.

While we compared the rhythm of the trained muscle of man and the untrained melody of nature. He is so much influenced by impulse that his eccentricities might be put down as the result of something akin to madness by those who do not know him; but his impulses are all in the right direction, and the outcome of a kindly heart.

Hearing One's Self.

"It is a singular thing," says a physician, "that a man does not hear his own voice exclusively through his ears. The prevalence of throat deafness is a proof to the layman of the connection between the ears and throat, and this inability to hear one's self speak just as others hear us is another instance. In some people this peculiarity is very marked, and in my case, if I speak into a phonograph and let the machine grind out the sounds again, I don't recognize the voice at all. In regard to singing, the varying ability to hear one's self with the ears plugged up with cotton makes itself evident, for while one member of a chorus will only hear the blended harmony, or discord, another will hear little beyond his or her own voice, and make occasional bad breaks in consequence. I know a man who used to sing a very fair baritone, but whose voice is now only adapted to the weakest falsetto. Yet he doesn't realize the change, and I believe he 'honestly' thinks he sings as well as ever. This apparent impossibility may be a dispensation of Providence to prevent men with exceptionally ugly voices being driven to suicide."

Remarkable Growth.

The growth of the Argentine republic in the past thirty years has been remarkable. According to recent statistics the population of the republic is now 4,000,000, as against 1,350,000 in 1861. There are now 7,000,000 acres under cultivation where in 1861 there were 400,000, and while in that year there were but eighteen miles of railroad in the country there are now over 5,000 miles in operation and 6,000 more, including the great transcontinental route, in course of construction. The public debt has grown pretty vigorously, too, however. It has increased from $17,000,000 to $613,000,000.

THE DETROIT TO BE RAISED.

A Gun Boat Sunk By Perry For Exhibition at the World's Fair.

New York, Oct. 21.—The gun boat Detroit, of the British Navy, which was sunk in Lake Erie during the war of 1812, when Capt. O. H. Perry won his famous victory, is soon to be raised (by Capt. Michael Carr, of Buffalo, one of the best known pilots on the lake and an experienced diver.) The boat will be exhibited at the Chicago World's Fair.

The Detroit now lies off Squaw Island where she was sunk and her whereabouts are known to but few. She has been no hindrance to navigation and probably for that reason has not been touched. As soon as the boat is put on dry land she will be overhauled and put in presentable condition.

The Detroit was captured by Capt. Barclay, and was built solely for war. She was pierced for 18 guns and measured 805 tons. When completed her captain said she was one of the best boats on the lakes.

The Detroit was pitted against the strongest of Capt. Perry's ships—the Lawrence—on Sept. 12, 1812, and only went down after four hours of awful fighting. It was on that day that Perry's name became famous. Every commanding officer of the Detroit and their seconds were either killed or wounded so severely as to be unable to keep the deck. The Detroit had guns of four different calibers.

Curious Discovery of Smuggled Opium.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—An important seizure of contraband opium was made yesterday on the coasting steamer Lakme, which had just arrived in port from Seattle. The discovery of the contraband article was made in a curious way. The customs officers had searched the vessel without finding anything out of the ordinary, when one of the officers was much struck with a picture which hung upon the wall of the cabin. He thought he would take it. He removed it from the wall and was greatly surprised to find a large cavity in the wall from which he extracted 172 boxes of the choicest Chinese opium.

Attempted Train Wrecking.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 21.—An attempt was made to wreck the McKeesport and Belle Vernon passenger train on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad between McKeesport and Charleroi Monday night. As the train was rounding a curve the engineer noticed an obstruction on the track, but stopped before reaching it. Half a dozen large planks were found across the track. Had the train been running at a high rate of speed a bad accident would probably have resulted. Detectives are searching for the miscreants who placed the planks on the track.

The remains were recognized as those of Miss Alice Hecht of this city.

POLITICAL.

It will be Green.

Don't fail to stay home and vote. Ben Smith has made a most excellent deputy sheriff under no less than five sheriffs, both Republicans and Democrats. He is fully qualified to fill the position he will be elected to.

With Heffner and McGinnis on the Poor Board there will be honest business methods used.

Since the Democratic treasurers of several states have gone unpunished, there is not so much said about Hardsley.

"Let no guilty man escape," is the motto of the Republicans. Can the Democrats say as much.

J. H. Pomerooy, Esq., will poll an unusually large vote in this county for delegate at large to the Constitutional Convention.

Julius Green will be elected by a very large majority.

See that your neighbor gets out and votes on Tuesday a week.

The first election under the new law in this state takes place next fall.

Republicans, stand firm and give the enemy to understand that we are "in it" this year.

The appointments under Governor Patton does not give satisfaction to the Republicans that voted for him last fall.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt censure and condemnation to the said body for discriminating against us and our sisters on Main street in removing the sweepings every Saturday morning on said street.

Resolved, That we present our High Contract with a suit of fur for the shillee manner in which he has carried out the ordinance relative to goats, hogs, dogs and other animals on our streets day and night.

Resolved, That we congratulate the electric railway company on its energy and pluck in bringing about means for bringing other industries into our town.

Resolved, That we meet once a week until a reform takes place and report to the HERALD through.
